

RED CROSS WINS ITALY'S GRATITUDE

Twenty Million Dollars Total
Expenditure by the End of Present Year.

PROVED U. S. FRIENDSHIP

German Propaganda Had Made
People Doubt Probability of American Aid.

The wide scope of the Red Cross work in Italy, where $20,000,000 will have been spent by the end of this year, is shown in a statement issued by Henry P. Davidson showing the use being made of the funds; $7,539,653 had been appropriated to carry on the work in Italy up to July 1, 1918, but the enlargement of the programme there has called for an additional appropriation this year of $12,657,357.

"Figures, however, can give but a faint idea of the magnitude of the work of relief in which the American Red Cross is engaged in any field, much less in Italy," says Mr. Davidson, "where from the beginning conditions were unusual and the labors of the commission and its assistants were twofold, namely affording aid and succor to those in distress and bearing the advance message of fraternal activities on the part of the United States to those upon whom the stress of battle was falling."

The American Red Cross has never been more timely in its efforts in a new field than in Italy. The commission was being formed when the Austrians drove began in 1917 and all Italy was filled with refugees from invaded districts. Workers were immediately sent there and began to receive the situation with whatever materials were available. The first two men reached Rome November 6, 1917, when refugees were pouring from the Italian plains. The report continues:

Swiftly Care for Refugees.

"They appropriated money to the American Red Cross clearing house, which enabled it to open a canteen for refugees at the railroad stations in Rome four full days before the first Italian canteen was opened. Shortly after the American Red Cross canteen was opened, the station was filled with refugees from invaded districts. Workers were immediately sent there and began to receive the situation with whatever materials were available. The first two men reached Rome November 6, 1917, when refugees were pouring from the Italian plains. The report continues:

Work Among Soldiers.

"In addition to the refugees, naturally the American Red Cross workers have great attention to the soldiers at the front and to their families. Because of the German propaganda there had been much talk of the German soldiers who were not going to receive the support of America. It was a part of the work of the American Red Cross to offset this propaganda and it was done in the most effective way—by deeds, not by words.

Ambulances Convince Italians.

"So swift was the German advance that more than 100 hospitals immediately back of the lines and two large magazines of supplies were destroyed. The American Red Cross workers began to assist in supplying the needs thus created, and 551,000 articles in the way of hospital supplies were provided in sixty days. Ninety-nine ambulances

RED CROSS MAKES HEADWAY IN JAPAN

President of the Organization Tells of Difficulties That Had to Be Overcome.

IT NOW HAS $12,500,000

Baron Ishiguro Thinks Mercy Institution Greatest Factor for Humanity.

The staff correspondent of THE SUN in Tokyo has obtained an interview with Baron Ishiguro, president of the Japanese Red Cross, in which he outlines the genesis of the society, its growth to its present large proportions and the work the organization has done in the present world war.

In the form of a signed statement, follows:

By BARON TADANORI ISHIGURO.

TOKYO, Aug. 10.—Japan was once called "a heathen country." She was, as she did not know what Christianity meant nor did she understand what the Red Cross signifies. She got easily tangled at the very beginning of the Red Cross movement in her confusions and when she began to use the world familiar cross as the emblem of the most humanitarian organization in the world.

We therefore had much difficulty when we started out to lay the foundation of our society, which now has nearly 2,000,000 members in the small space of our island empire, and which has accumulated more than 25,000,000 yen ($12,500,000) as its fixed funds.

It has taken many years and a great deal of labor to bring the society to its present stage of perfection and large growth, but of course no comparison can be made with the gigantic American Red Cross, which has accumulated more than 200,000,000 yen ($100,000,000) as its fixed funds.

And furthermore the American Red Cross has enrolled within an incredibly short time the vast aggregate of 35,000,000 members.

These things seem to us like dreams!

Tells of His Lecture Tour.

As I have mentioned above, it was a difficult task to bring home to the Japanese people the difference between Christianity and the Red Cross. With my wife I started on a lecture tour with me a magic lantern, and I traveled all over Japan from place to place for two years, showing my slides and telling the people the story of the Red Cross, its mission and its principles. In this way the society slowly got to be known, and it has passed through a long history. It is now a part of the life of the Japanese people.

The society has since been recognized and sanctioned by the Geneva convention, and it has become one of the great societies of the world. It has given relief to the victims of war during our troubles with China, during our war with Russia, that was as devastating as any war in the history of the world. It has given relief to the victims of war during our troubles with China, during our war with Russia, that was as devastating as any war in the history of the world.

But recently the Japanese Red Cross Society has sent a relief unit consisting of 100 members, doctors, nurses, etc., to Russia.

I am more than happy to have this unit cooperate with the members of the Red Cross in Russia. It is a great honor for the Japanese Red Cross to have this unit cooperate with the members of the Red Cross in Russia. It is a great honor for the Japanese Red Cross to have this unit cooperate with the members of the Red Cross in Russia.

In State of Preparedness.

It may be of interest to briefly mention the state of preparedness of the Japanese Red Cross. It is always in a state of readiness to do all that is required of it. It is always in a state of readiness to do all that is required of it.

During the present war—in 1915—our society has given relief service to the sick and wounded of both sides. Our hospital ships have been in commission and thoroughly equipped, then were used for the transportation of patients between Japan and the Philippines. In addition to this service we sent four relief detachments to the naval hospitals at Sasebo, Japan, and to the military hospitals at Manila, Philippines.

When the present terrible war broke out in Europe our society decided to render such service as it could to the allied forces, and we dispatched three relief units, each one to a different theater of war, England, Russia and France. All of these units had the honor of being sent to the front lines of the war. They had fought for the great cause of civilization and humanity.

Our society has besides been contributing hospital supplies to the Red Cross organizations of the Allies, such as bandages, medicines, medical instruments, etc. Furthermore, as a result of the war, we have been able to contribute to the relief of the German prisoners of war in Japan in order to facilitate the transportation of the prisoners to their homes. We have been able to contribute to the relief of the German prisoners of war in Japan in order to facilitate the transportation of the prisoners to their homes.

We are proud to say that all the prisoners in our country have been well fed and properly treated by the authorities, much better than our own men have been, I should judge.

Hard to Understand Enemy.

We find it indeed difficult to understand the cruel and inhuman treatment of allied prisoners in the enemy country. We find it indeed difficult to understand the cruel and inhuman treatment of allied prisoners in the enemy country.

That we may show our respect and extend our deepest sympathies to the allied Red Cross, we have organized a relief service at the front as well as at home, and that have so nobly endured all manner of hardships for so long a time, and whose brave and heroic deeds are so well known to all, the Japanese Red Cross Society has just sent a special mission, directed by Prince Tokugawa, to the United States, England, France, Italy and Belgium. The mission took with it a lot of hospital supplies to be given abroad.

All the world is now suffering the ill effects of the war, and in no light fashion. But in my opinion the war must go on and on until we are assured of attaining the final goal of a permanent world peace.

The Red Cross is, I think, the only institution that can bring all the nations into a universal brotherhood. There should not be either superior or inferior nations on the earth. All nations are equal. And the only way to bring about a permanent world peace is by the Red Cross. The Red Cross is, I think, the only institution that can bring all the nations into a universal brotherhood.

There should not be either superior or inferior nations on the earth. All nations are equal. And the only way to bring about a permanent world peace is by the Red Cross.

The Red Cross is, I think, the only institution that can bring all the nations into a universal brotherhood. There should not be either superior or inferior nations on the earth. All nations are equal. And the only way to bring about a permanent world peace is by the Red Cross.
